After reading Chapter 1, find 1 or 2 or more specific ideas or research findings, and imagine how they might apply to the problem of World Peace. Write a short essay, 100 to 500 words, that assumes the role of "teacher" in informing the reader about the issue or idea in social psychology (based on Chapter 1), and how it might apply to the problem of World Peace. You can apply the ideas to an issue less lofty than world peace (for example, gender or race or sexuality or interpersonal conflicts). Preference is given to those efforts directed toward World Peace. Include a TITLE, a by line, and -- where appropriate -- a list of the references that you cite.
