It is not only at adolescence where humans are capable of being molded; it is at any age that an individual’s perception can be manipulated—primarily through public media outlets.

Mass media affects people—of all ages—in the shaping and manipulation of public opinion.

When you have eight-year old children who are more than familiar with types of assault rifles, you know there is an issue. (22 words)

When eight-year old children are familiar with assault rifles, we have a crisis. (13 words)

In today’s society, there lies a huge problem that affects the way we view others. We judge people based on the color of their skin or their ethnicity and we automatically assume that they are a certain way. Social Psychology teaches us that the way in which we learn is through conditioning, “the ability to connect stimuli (things or events in the environment) with responses (behaviors or other actions).” (pg. 55) [71 WORDS]

Prejudging others – on the basis of skin color or ethnicity – is a huge problem. These prejudgments are learned through conditioning—connecting certain stimuli with prescribed emotional responses (Jhangiani & Talley, 2014).

As a community, we should deviate away from false consensus biases.

Phrase dropping (“false consensus bias”) without elucidation is weak. False consensus bias is...... We must avoid....

In contrast to these women, the princesses in the movies are all saved by a man and must rely on him, or other men, to rescue and protect them, all resulting in marriage.

In contrast, the princesses in these movies are saved by men who protect them. For Disney princesses, marriage is a happy ending.
